

Graduates' Society President Describes Journalism To Club

Philip D. Ross Addresses Luncheon Meeting Of Canadian Club

PROMINENT EDITOR

Head Of Ottawa Journal Reveals Inside Of Newspaper

"A newspaper is a window looking out on the world," stated Philip D. Ross, President of the Graduates' Society of McGill University and of the Ottawa Journal, who was the guest speaker at a luncheon meeting of the Canadian Club in the Salle Doree of the Mount Royal Hotel yesterday.

The speaker, who is also a past president of the Ottawa Board of Trade, was introduced by M. J. E. MacPherson, and the topic of his address was: "Inside a Newspaper." "A common misapprehension," the speaker said, "is that a newspaper is primarily a business enterprise. Another misapprehension, although not so common, is that it is merely a philanthropic organization. It is neither and it is both. It must be financially successful, but must also serve the public."

Excellent Service

Mr. Ross then went on to show how entirely different a newspaper is from what it is usually thought to be. "The Canadian newspaper publishing is based on two organs: The Canadian Daily Newspaper Association for the business part, and the Canadian Press for the gathering and the distributing of news. The latter is affiliated with the American Associated Press and the British Reuters Agency. It is given better service than any other newspaper group in any country."

The three Gods of the Mechanical side of the newspaper business are Speed, System, Accuracy. The Ottawa Journal presses turn out 60,000 four-page papers in one hour, and this great speed is due to the development of the rotary process. There is an average of 10,000 chances of error in one issue of a paper. Yet the percentage of mistakes is extremely low, on account of the great care taken by all those who contribute to the composition of the Journal.

Editorials Useful

Another much-debated point is whether an editorial page is a necessity. It is, as the opinion of well-informed and relatively important men is of considerable weight. "A paper like the 'London Times' would not live in this country," the speaker pointed out, "as in Canada there is a great majority of uneducated people. These and their tastes must be taken into account. The results of a questionnaire sent out haphazardly to the subscribers of the Ottawa Journal revealed that Dorothy Dix was pretty nearly the favorite, while Mutt and Jeff closely followed her."

Peer To Speak On Hindu Student Life

Students Will Hear Lord Zetland On Saturday Morning

"Student Life in India" will form the subject of an address which will be delivered by the Marquess of Zetland, well-known statesman, author and authority on Indian affairs in an address before the student body in Moyses Hall this Saturday noon at 12:00 o'clock.

The fact that in a recent address the nobleman described Mahatma Gandhi as "an impractical person and a man of extreme asceticism and of fanatical disposition" reveals the insight and the firmness which may be expected in his address Saturday.

Lord Zetland has come to Canada under the auspices of National Council of Education and will be in Montreal from January 28th to the 31st. He is fully qualified to speak on any angle of the Indian question, and his Lordship's visit is very timely as Indian affairs are very much in the public eye. He comes of a very distinguished family, which has interested itself in the English destiny in India. The Marquess spent ten years after graduating from college in travelling; this he spent for the most part in the Orient and especially in India, as eastern affairs have always interested him.

It is understood that Sir Arthur Currie, principal of the University is very keen that all students attend this lecture on India, as this subject should be of interest to them.

Historical Club To Hold Gathering At Sir Arthur's Home

TONIGHT at 8:30 a meeting of the Historical Club will be held at the residence of Sir Arthur Currie. The speaker, Desmond Martin, is an Arts undergraduate of McGill. His subject entitled "The Rise of the Mongol Empire in the Thirteenth Century" is a topic of general interest. During this period the Mongols built up an empire from the confused mass of peoples dwelling in what is now North China. They were ruthless and almost invincible warriors, spreading gradually southward and eastward. Although they never actually succeeded in breaking through the bulwarks of Europe they were a menace to eastern civilization for some time.

Date Of Polling For Elections To Council Set For Wednesday

Chose President of Students' Society And Engineering Representative

SEVEN CANDIDATES

Four For Engineering, Three For Presidency Run In By-Election

Engineering students go to the polls twice tomorrow and other undergraduates once as they are called upon to elect a Student Council Representative for the former, and a President of the Students' Society. This by-election has been necessitated by the resignation of Reginald S. Newton, Eng. '34 as Engineering representative and of Arthur Deane Nesbitt, Eng. '33 as President of the Students' Society and Chairman of the Students' Executive Council.

Five candidates have been nominated for the position of President of the Society, but two nominees have withdrawn their candidatures, leaving only three to be selected from. These are: Arthur Deane Nesbitt, resigning president and past President of the Engineering Undergraduate; Gerald W. Halpenny, Med. '34, Faculty Representative to the Students' Council and member of the Senior Football and Basketball teams; John Hutchinson, Law '34, Arts '31, captain of the Track and Field team, past President of the Scarlet Key Society and member of the Athletic Board.

Four students are running for the position of Engineering Representative on the Students' Executive Council. They are: John Desmond Shortall, President of the Newman Club; Philip B. French, member of the water polo team, star swimmer and diver, the third being Oakland K. Ross, Junior Prom Committee representative, and secretary of the Engineering Undergraduate Society. It was misstated in the McGill Daily yesterday that the elections were to be held yesterday but they will be held concurrently with those for the President of the Students' Society.

Dr. Walter Speaks On Goethe Tonight

Goethelieder To Be Sung As Musical Illustration

The first of a series of four lectures sponsored by the Montreal Branch of the Goethe Society of America, will be given at 8:30 this evening in Moyses Hall. This lecture, entitled "Goethe and Music," will be delivered by Professor H. Walter, head of the Department of German Languages at McGill, and musical illustrations will be provided by a number of Goethelieder sung by Mrs. William Ewing, Jr., to the accompaniment of Mr. Blair.

The second lecture will be given on January 31st, when Professor W. L. Graff will speak on "Weimar and the German Theatre," and on February 7th, Prof. Felix Walter of the University of Toronto will give an address on "Goethe in France." The last lecture of the series will be given on Tuesday February 14th, when Prof. A. S. Nord will discuss "Goethe in Italian Literature."

These lectures are free and open to the public. They will be delivered in English and should prove very interesting.

The old tradition in Lehigh University which prevents freshmen from wearing mustaches was enforced last week when several students removed one from a freshman who despite several warnings still insisted upon appearing on the campus without his upper lip cleanly shaven.

J. A. Edmison Speaks At Stratheona Hall On Public Speaking

Unemployed Audience Is Taught How To Address Meetings

BREVITY ESSENTIAL

Many In Favour Of Debating Club For Jobless

The second of a series of lectures for the white collar unemployed was given yesterday at 4:15 p.m. in Stratheona Hall, under the auspices of the Department of Extra Mural Relations. The speaker for this series is Mr. J. A. Edmison, lecturer for the Department of Extra Mural Relations, and the Junior Board of Trade, and the lectures comprise a full survey of the field of public speaking and debating.

Yesterday's lecture dealt with the introduction, arrangement, and conclusion of a speech. In dealing with the introduction to a speech, Mr. Edmison said that it should be brief, and to the point. Hackneyed apologies and expressions such as, "Unaccustomed as I am to public speaking," should not be used under any circumstances, and the audience should not be hoodwinked by pretences at unpreparedness.

Should Judge Audience

In the time he takes for his introduction the speaker should also judge his audience and gauge its interest in the subject he is about to talk upon, and then proceed to captivate his listeners by using some psychological dodges such as telling a story that will interest that type of audience and make it pay attention.

Introductions, according to Mr. Edmison, can be of six different kinds. The formal introduction is the one most commonly used. It explains the purpose of the address, and is generally very short. The personal introduction is a more intimate one. It is used by most speakers who are lecturing for the second or third time before the same organization, or by people whose relatives or close friends are prominent in that particular group. Then there is the type of introduction that refers to the occasion, for instance, Armistice Day, or Convocation Day.

Humorous Introduction

An address might also be introduced by a humorous story or joke which fits the occasion. Further kinds of introduction are those which use a quotation or a story with a moral as their basis. The first is very popular with women's clubs, and the second is a very common after-dinner speech introduction. The introduction should be smooth and fluently spoken, as it is the key to the whole speech.

Next to the introduction, the arrangement of material is the most important thing in an address. This can be done in the following ways: Chronologically, Topically, or Argumentatively. The chronological way is used when discussing the life and work of a man, or when telling the history of a movement or organization. The topical arrangement is used when expounding a new doctrine or theory, in which case the material is set down (Continued on Page 2)

Depression Causes To Be Dealt With

Dr. Leacock Will Give His Plan For Permanent Recovery

On Thursday, January 26th at 1:15 Prof. Stephen Leacock will address the Women's Canadian Club at a luncheon meeting in the Mount Royal Hotel, on "The Riddle of the Depression."

Prof. Leacock's treatment of the discussion will deal especially with those causes commonly assigned to the depression, as the breakdown of the Currency Exchange with its consequent action on the Gold Standard, the exclusive tariffs and national barriers and the burden of war debts now borne by the ex-Allies.

While Dr. Leacock regards all these as contributing to the severity of the depression, yet in themselves he does not consider them responsible for the present state of affairs, but gives as his opinion that this depression would be just as complete in a world of free trade countries or in a world unburdened by war debts.

He considers that by proper action the present depression could be lifted in six days, cured in six months, and its return prevented in six years. Unless this action is taken, while the world will eventually drift out of this depression, it will have had a very narrow escape indeed. This will be followed by a short hectic period of wild prosperity—and then will come the end.

Theological College To Be Witness Of Gibb Prize Debate

WHETHER or not we have too many parliaments in Canada will be decided in the fourth debate of the session at the Diocesan Theological College this evening at eight-fifteen.

Winston Kerr and Raymond Stote will uphold the resolution "That our Provincial Parliaments are too numerous." They will be opposed by John Peacock and Clifford Andrews. Arthur Marshall will occupy the chair. This debate is one in the annual series for the Lachlan Gibb Cup and Prize given each year for debating and public speaking. All interested are invited to this debate which takes place in the Convocation Hall at 3473 University Street.

Prominent Scientist Writ For Annual

Dr. Soddy Tells Of Reminiscences Of Early Century

WAS DEMONSTRATOR

Photographs Of Apparatus Featured In "Old McGill" 1933

A real scoop for "Old McGill" 1933 in the shape of an article by Dr. Frederick Soddy, was announced last night by the Editor-in-Chief of that publication. Dr. Soddy's contribution to the Annual, now in the hands of the Managing Board, is one of reminiscences dealing with conditions and personalities at McGill in the first years of the present century.

At that time Dr. Soddy was a demonstrator here and collaborated with Lord Rutherford in the discovery of the theory and laws of spontaneous disintegration of radioactive elements. Several pages of the Annual will be given over to photographs of the apparatus used by these two scientists in their experiments. It is thought that this collection, one of the most cherished possessions of the college should have lasting fame.

Not Technical

It has not been the intention of Dr. Soddy, M.A., F.R.S. to write a purely technical article. Impressions of people and pen-sketches occupy a large part of the article. He does not neglect himself in his descriptions but mixes his criticisms with accounts of his own activities. This scientist, who is Lee Professor of Inorganic and Physical Chemistry was born in 1877, has been educated at Eastbourne and Merton Colleges, Oxford and acted as demonstrator at McGill from 1900 to 1902.

Here he trained under Lord Rutherford and originated at least in part the Theory of Disintegration and the Displacement Law of Radio-Activity. He is the discoverer of Isotopes and the author of the application of the Laws of Conservations to Economics. His numerous writings are well known and the editorial board of the Annual feel honoured at the thought that he spared from his work the time to add a real feature to "Old McGill" 1933.

Spanish Club Holds Debate Next Month

Senor Jore Gonsales Will Speak Before Group

Groups of McGill students will debate on the motion: "Resolved, That Spain will prosper more under the Republic than under the old Monarchy" on February 6th, and not on January 31st, as was erroneously stated in yesterday's Daily. This debate will be followed by a criticism from the floor. On January 31st, Senor Jorge Gonsales, ex-consul of Columbia, will give a lecture on "Columbia and Its Customs."

This lecture should be of interest and of great educational value, as Senor Gonsales is an authority on this subject. This meeting, like others held previously will be followed by an informal discussion, and by the serving of refreshments. Among the subsequent lectures, that on February 20th will be given by Senor Don Barreda, and enlivened with the showing of slides. The topic will be "Mexican Customs and Music," while "Modern Chile" will be dealt with on Feb. 27th by Senor Don J. J. de Lina.

Prominent Speaker For Players' Club Tea This Thursday

Informal Tea To Be Held at Union Cafeteria

TICKET TEAMS

Appointment of Ticket And Publicity Managers Officially Ratified

A novel feature will be inaugurated by the Players' Club this Thursday, at 4:30, when an informal tea will be held in the Union Cafeteria, for its members and all others interested. A small charge of five cents per person, will be made to defray the expenses. The main attraction of this occasion will be an address given by some prominent speaker whose name as yet has not been divulged.

The executive at its meeting yesterday afternoon, officially ratified the appointments of S. S. Fels as ticket manager, and H. Perelmutter as publicity manager.

Ticket Teams

The new idea of the formation of ticket teams was elaborated, and the executive is very anxious for students to lend their assistance by offering to sell tickets in these teams. The following are the divisions which have been made:

- 1—R.V.C. and Arts—Campus Team.
- 2—Fraternities (Men).
- 3—Fraternities (Women).
- 4—Schools and Dramatic Societies.
- 5—The Faculty.
- 6—Stratheona Hall.

Numerous rehearsals have already been held by the cast, and all parts in acts 1 and 2 are known. The actors are showing an excellent understanding of the various characterizations which they are to portray, and are getting into the spirit of the drama.

Poster Display

Very shortly posters will be on display at various points throughout the city. A very clever and attractive poster has been especially drawn up for display in the Arts Building, and it is certain that it will elicit great admiration and attention.

Another innovation will be the organization of a make-up class, for the careful study of this extremely important part of play production. This class will practice making up the various members of the cast, and will also try their art on one another.

The members of the Workshop Department will convene today, and will be asked to help the Club in its forthcoming effort.

S.C.M. Appeals For Financial Assistance

Committee Expresses Urgent Need For Support

A statement was issued over the week-end by the Treasurer of the Student Christian Movement urging all who are interested in the Movement to make a special effort to send in their subscriptions in order that the program for the year may be carried out. The Finance Committee reports that the S. C. M. is most urgently in need of financial support to maintain its existence, on the campus, and it looks to those who have the work of the Movement at heart to help out materially in this exigency.

Subscriptions may be left at Stratheona Hall or given to any of the following: Jim Anglin, Arts; Nesbitt Dobson, Engineering; Doug Mellor, Commerce; Max Ford, Law; Hugh Trimmingham, and Bill Braisted, Medicine; Mary Davidson, Graduate Faculty; Women: Relief Williams, Freda Mason, R. V. C.; Jean Hunter, Ida Curtis, Anna Dobson, First Year Arts; Jean McCuaig, Second Yr.; Frances Walbridge, Third Yr.; Jean McDonald, Ruth Richey, Fourth Yr.; Mildred Bell, B. Sc.; Kay Elliott, Medicine.

Arrive On Friday

South African Students Will Leave Saturday

On Friday, January 27th, Windsor Station will witness the arrival of the group of South African Students who are now touring Canada. During their stay in Montreal, which will last two days, they will be entertained by the McGill Scarlet Key Society. The program which they will probably follow during their brief sojourn in the metropolis includes the visit of the City, and a few truly Canadian sights as a hockey game at the Arena, a snow-shoe race at Lafontaine Park. They will meet the Governor General in the Arts Building, on Saturday, if possible; they will also attend the Marquess of Zetland Address in Moyses Hall.

Workshop Meeting In Union Grill Plays Are Chosen

A MEETING of the Workshop will be held in the Grill Room this afternoon at 5 p.m. when those who have signed up with the Workshop should be present. Several important announcements will be made and it is rumoured that some more ideas are to be sprung on the members. The chairman appeals to all members to be present.

The choice of plays for the next production will be divulged, and as four students have submitted plays great interest has been aroused as to whose play will be chosen. It is also of interest that after the meeting a tryout for the plays will be held.

Employment Bureau Topic Of Bi-Weekly Grads' Broadcast

G. B. Glasco Outlines Aims And Merits Of Organisation

FREE HELP GIVEN

Applicants From Other Universities Aided With Advice

G. B. Glasco, B. Sc., outlined the purpose and merits of the McGill Graduates' Society Employment Bureau in an address last night over Station OKAC. The main purpose of this organization is the placement of graduates and past students in positions appropriate to their ability, education and experience. These services, which are given freely to all concerned, is a contribution of the Graduates' Society to the present world-wide situation.

It is not the duty of the University to render this service to the public, the fundamental function of the College being to advance learning. Although many universities in Canada, Great Britain and the United States have inaugurated bureaux of this kind, this is merely evidence of their desire to render a service which is badly needed, rather than an acceptance of it as a duty.

Relieves Faculty

This service also helps the members of the faculty by relieving them of the necessity of carrying this additional burden along with their many and varied, their erudite and exacting, their useful and valuable efforts in the realms of learning and education. In the past this service has been executed by members of the faculty at a considerable and sometimes serious loss of their valuable time. Although these members have done their best, the bureau will be able to do vastly better work than they have in the past. This bureau has been able to do much good work in advising the students as to what branch of his particular field to enter.

This organization is also of much value to the graduate. He may and does seek to find his own employment, but the bureau provides him with a central point, where he may present his qualifications to prospective employers. The question arises as to whether or not the student is entitled to this service, and whether he is correct in assuming, as he very often does, that the University owes it to him to obtain, if it can, employment for him after he has spent four of his best years preparing himself for his career under the University's tuition and guidance.

Should Give Advice

He may feel that University should give him advice as to the best outlet for his talents, owing to his knowledge of his character, and its larger experience of the work-a-day world. Theoretically the University is a seat of learning and is responsible only that the best opportunities are given its students to acquire knowledge. Practically there can be no doubt that the object of education is to fit men and women to become useful citizens, and hence it is considered by many the duty of the university to direct its graduates' steps in the right direction.

These are the aims of the Graduate Society in founding an employment bureau for the graduates of the University. The Society has done this in spite of financial difficulties of its own. This service is given free, and, in passing, it should be mentioned that this has been its policy from its inauguration. The Society also wishes to gain for McGill graduates as many of the good positions in Canada as possible. If this service were withheld from McGill men and women, (Continued on Page 4)

Dr. Vlastos Attends Weekend Conference

Subject Is "Religion In The Modern Mood"

The chief speaker at the week-end conference to be held January 28th and 29th, by the Student Christian Movement will be Dr. Gregory Vlastos who will speak on "Religion in the Modern Mood."

Dr. Vlastos, who is an Associate Professor of Philosophy at Queen's University is one of the youngest staff members of professional rank in Canada and is considered a brilliant thinker and gifted speaker. He was born in Constantinople and comes with a background rich in experience of other parts of the world.

Registration for the Conference may be made at the Office in Stratheona Hall—the charge of seventy-five cents includes all expenses.

Interfaculty Swimmers To Engage In Meet This Thursday

Provincial High Board Diving Championship Will be Contested on Same Night — Seniors Play "Old Boys" In Water Polo, At Columbus Tank Starting at 8.30

PREPARATORY to contests of greater importance, the annual Interfaculty Swimming Meet, promises to be bigger and better than ever this year when it is held this Thursday night at the Knights of Columbus tank. Departing from the custom of previous seasons, when little importance was attached to such a meet, which was held usually during the regular practice session, those in charge of swimming activities this year intend devoting an entire evening to the swimming events, and other aquatic attractions on the program.

An especially outstanding event which is to be run off during the evening, is, the Provincial High Board Diving Championship. This contest which has not been held for several years, has been sanctioned by the Provincial swimming authorities, and some excellent performances can be expected from the number of well known high board performers around the city who have signified their intention of entering. The event will be contested under the 1928 Olympic ruling which differs from the rules of the recent Olympics, only in the number and variety of executed dives.

Griffiths Will Dive
McGill divers have always been quite at home on the high board, although they have never had an opportunity to prove their excellent worth against the district divers to such an extent as they have against their old rivals, Toronto Varsity. So far, only Harry Griffiths has elected to carry the colors of the Redmen into this event on Thursday night, with possibly Dudley Butlerfield as another entrant, if he is sufficiently recovered from an illness. Bill Sprenger is another McGill diver who has performed well in the past, but as he intends taking part in at least four other events on the program during the evening, will not enter the championship affair.

A water polo match between the McGill seniors and "Old Boys" occupies another interesting portion of the program. A game of this sort was to have been played about a month ago, but a lack of "Old Boys" necessitated its cancellation. This time, however, more than a full team of old-timers have expressed their intention of making an appearance, despite the fact that some have not been in a pool for some time. All indications point to the fact that the extra number of men available will be necessary as well as welcome, since Canadian rules will be adhered to instead of the customary International rules. The former type of play permits a great deal more "roughing" in the water with consequent "livening up" of the game.

Old-Timers Well Known
Of the "Old Boys" who will play on Thursday, several are well known figures in aquatic circles. George Vickerson, present McGill polo and swimming mentor, will undoubtedly swim centre for the old-timers, since that was his favorite position in past years on college polo teams. Morrie Bruker, aquatic coach for the Y.M.H.A. and Eddie Quinn, expert player on the present Columbus senior polo team will complete the forward line. Others rounding out the team will be George Vernot, Phil Matthews, I. Forsythe, and G. Jardine, coach of Baron Byng High School swimmers.

Swimming events will, of course, fill up the greater part of the evening with students of all faculties contesting the various events. The results of this meet are carefully watched for potential swimmers of intercollegiate calibre, for the Intercollegiate swim meet takes place near the end of next month, and new swimmers are always needed to fill the gaps left by graduation.

Speed Events Foremost
The fifty and hundred yard dashes are favorite events on any swimming program and occupy a prominent place in Thursday's meet. Several swimmers have been making good times in these events during practices, and ratings of 27 seconds and less in the 50 yard event, and under 60 seconds in the 100, are not uncommon. In all, some pretty close competition is expected in these contests.

The 200 and 440 yard swims usually collect a smaller number of entrants and this meet should prove no exception. Stein, Peacock and Shragovitch will probably fight it out in these events. The 100 yd. breast stroke is expected to be a duel between Bill Wilson and Hugh Savage while the back stroke event is doubtful.

Coupons Accepted
Last year the Faculty of Engineering walked off with the grand total, but they can expect a sterner battle this year, with Arts and Law threatening their laurels. Students are urged to turn out on Thursday night starting at 8.30 to represent their faculties both in the water, and in the gallery with the necessary vocal support. Coupons will admit undergraduates, while an admission price will be charged to outsiders.

INTERCLASS AND INTERFACULTY HOCKEY REPORTS
Managers of winning teams are reminded that a report of the game must be handed in to the Daily office the same night, including lineups of the teams playing.

Red Hockey Juniors Win Fast Match

Alec Duff Scores Deciding Counter of Game; Score 4 to 3

GAIN SECOND PLACE IN LEAGUE STANDING

Junior And Senior Royals Battle to 3-3 Draw In Exhibition

A SPIRITED rally by the young Victorias in the last few minutes of play that tied the score, but just fell short of winning the game, featured the contest between Vics and McGill Juniors played last night at the Forum. McGill eventually won out 4-3 on a smart goal by Alex Duff with only a minute to play; and as a result gained undisputed possession of second place in the Junior A. H. A. standing.

Only one junior game was played last night, the other contest between Loyola and St. Francois Xavier being postponed to a later date as the West End Collegians are in the midst of mid-term exams and would have had to default the game to the Frenchmen. The latter agreed however to play the game later in the season. An exhibition match between the Royals Senior and Junior teams was arranged to fill out last night's sport programme and proved to be a spectacular contest in which the powerful juniors stole the show by holding their more highly touted club-mates to a 3-3 tie. The score gave a clear indication of the high calibre of hockey played this year in the local junior city league.

Redmen Take Lead
The Redmen sprang into an early lead in their game with Victorias when after two minutes of play, Rolfe Lamb broke away alone and placed a rather easy shot behind Fyfe in the Maroon nets. For the first time this season McGill had its complete first string forward line in action and they set a fast pace that had the Vics on the run.

Elwood scored the second goal for McGill after six minutes of play, also on a lone effort and once again Fyfe played the shot poorly. McGill took a commanding lead just before the period ended when Willie Woo banged one home in the last minute to give the Redmen a three point lead as the first period ended.

Many Penalties
The second period was marked by a succession of penalties that had both teams playing one and sometimes two men short. At one time McGill were playing two men short but spectacular work by Wigle on the defence and Pacaud in goal kept the Vics from scoring. During this period Fyfe in the Maroon nets took a new lease of life and for the first time this season played up to the form that he is capable of displaying and which he was noted for when performing in the Red cage last season.

Time and again during the second period the line of Lamb, Duff and Morse broke away three abreast and rushed Fyfe, but he played every shot carefully and certainly robbed the Red forwards of at least three more goals. In the middle of the period, Desrochers poked in Victorias first goal from a scramble in front of the McGill net.

Vics Tie Score
In the third period, the fast pace continued as well as the penalty parade but seventeen minutes had elapsed before any real fireworks started; and it looked as though McGill would win by a comfortable margin. However just at this point Vics came to life with a bang and in less than twenty seconds had scored two goals and tied the count at 3-3. It was a smart rally that had the spectators on their feet and wondering if the Vics could continue and get the winning goal. The Red men were, however, not to be outdone and with just a minute to play, Alex Duff polished off a clever evening's display by counting the winning goal for McGill. Vics certainly threw a surprise into the Red team and their desperate rally all but won out for them.

For McGill the whole team played fine hockey and but for the great net minding of Fyfe after the first period, would have had little trouble winning out. Wigle continued to lay opposing forwards flat on the ice in the best approved style, while the first string line of Lamb, Duff and Morse functioned very smoothly. It is to be hoped that these men will continue to play together as they certainly will improve the chances of the Red team in the remaining league games.

Fyfe Returns to Form
Victorias played one of the best games that the Maroon clad clan has staged this season and certainly were a revelation to their supporters; especially Fyfe who after the first period, turned in his best effort of the season and showed the form that it is known he is capable of displaying when he sees fit to do so. THIS year the Women's Intercollegiate Basketball League holds its annual tournament in Montreal. The games, which are decided by a draw, will be played between Queens and Western after which McGill will oppose Varsity on Friday evening, February 24th. The following afternoon the losers will play off and the winners will fight it out for the championship. The "Bronze Baby" trophy, presented by the Student Council of McGill in '23 is awarded to the victorious team.

Varsity always have and still do offer the strongest competition in the league as they have had possession of the trophy ever since its presentation, with the exception of once when they lost it to Western in '28. Although McGill has lost three players through graduation she has had some talented additions and all are working hard to have the team toe the mark and perhaps fly the red and white colors through to victory.

Forward Line Strong
Notwithstanding that McGill lost one of its most dependable forwards in Janet Baillie, last year's captain, and one of the best defence players she has ever had in Merle Peden, her forward line is still very strong and her guards are well prepared to check the rushes of the opponent's forward line.

Although this, is only Marjorie Lynch's second year with the team, she has already won the coveted position of captain. Helen "Winnie" Chisholm, who has been playing for the red and white for four years, is always an accurate steady forward and one of the brightest of the team's lights. Mary Davidson, once captain of Western's team, who did much to strengthen last year's guard line is back to win new laurels. Sally Hay, who was a newcomer to the team last year will team up with Mary Davidson on the defence.

Goulding Back
Babs Goulding, versatile star in almost any field of athletics, is the best jumping centre the team has ever had and will be one of its most serious losses when she graduates this year. Another fine player who can smash through almost any defense is Cynthia Bazin. After a year's absence Janet Dobson returns to defend the defence line. Although this is her first year in intercollegiate circles, much will depend on Florence Jones' shooting when the team competes next month. Another promising newcomer is Janet Clouston, one of the prides of M. W. S. A. A. Hitherto the games have been played at R. V. C. when played locally. This year they will be played at the Girls' High School and there will be no admission charge. Last season, the series was played out of town, and so a large crowd of supporters are expected to view the conflicts.

An economics instructor at Johns Hopkins University fines all students ten cents for coming late to class.

Next Monday's doubleheader has been switched to this Saturday afternoon, so as to allow Toroneo Varsity to play the senior Red men on that night. The Red juniors meet St. Francois next Saturday afternoon at the Forum and this should prove to be a sparkling contest as both teams are fighting for the play-off position, and so far this season have met twice and both games ended in one all draws.

Plumbers Win Over Meds In Close Tilt

Interfaculty Hockey Match Ends at 3-2 Score

"SILENT" PLAYS WELL

IN a fast and furious game which gave little indication as to the superior team, the faculty of Engineering barely defeated a strong Medical team, in the scheduled interfaculty hockey tilt last Friday on the McGill rink. The eventual winner was in doubt right up to the final whistle, when "Silent" Law tricked the Med goaler with a fast shot with but three seconds left to the end of the game. Affairs started off auspiciously for the Plumbers in the first period when Christie opened up the scoring for Engineering. He was followed soon after by Ogilvie to put the Plumbers two up. Score at end of 1st period—Engineering 2, Medicine 0.

Medicine Catches Up
The second period found the Medicos trying hard to catch up on their rivals, but the rushing tactics of the Engineers prevented any chance of a goal. In the final period Medicine hit its stride and scored its first goal. The game was fiercely contested at this stage with the Meds determined to tie up the game. This they apparently succeeded in doing, for with but 10 seconds left of the final period, Chalmers slipped the puck into the opposite net. Affairs did not last long at this stage, however, for "Silent" (Continued on Page 4)

Science Challenged By Maurice Samuel In Forum Address

"The Triumphs And Failures
Of Science", Subject
Of Lecture

SCIENTIFIC SPIRIT

Technocracy And Behavior- ism Attacked As Tempor- ary Fads

That human nature has never changed, and that science will never effect a change in the inner capacities of Man, was the keynote of the address given by Maurice Samuel, writer and lecturer, in his address before the People's Forum Sunday afternoon, on the subject, "The Triumphs and Failures of Science."

This new scientific spirit, stated the speaker, dates back some 150 years, and since then the prevalent attitude has been to consider everything not based on laboratory methods absolutely valueless. The average man, using the telephone to speak to someone ten miles away, feels immeasurably superior, and has an immense contempt for his ignorant predecessor, who knew not of such blessings. "But," added Mr. Samuel, "the contempt resulting from this is directly proportional to the square of the average man's ignorance of the scientific principles of the telephone." This, he maintained constituted one aspect of the failure of science.

Science's Triumphs
The real triumphs of science lie in its technical achievements, and also in the scientific outlook, as such, which has been developed. "The trained capacity to differentiate between the yet unknown and the known." In political philosophy, science has taught the mathematics of history. Though the future of individuals is most uncertain, yet by virtue of this new scientific outlook, the future of masses can be adequately predicted. This is the true value of science. And yet this scientific spirit has not diffused itself widely enough.

Referring to the much discussed Technocracy, Mr. Samuel said: "It is a fashionable craze which has risen in popularity like the Eugenic has, and will probably decline at the same rate. The speaker then went on to discuss the Behaviorists, whose idealistic aim it was to reduce everybody to normality. Should this come about, it would lead to intellectual laziness, with which the solution of human problems is impossible. The Behaviorists would make all people compatible, but after all quarrelling is one of the best ways of developing individuality of ideas and singleness of purpose. "I would rather be in a bad temper, thinking," said he, "than in a good temper, not thinking." The majority of mal-adjustments, he went on to point out, have a purpose, and "human beings who fit perfectly into their surroundings have no value."

Is Vicious Scheme
Science moreover, will just as soon invent some death-dealing device, as some life-saving serum. It is going around in a vicious circle. "If science must be taken in this limited way, as it pleads to be taken... it is merely chasing its own tail."

However, once one cannot turn back the effects of scientific advance, it might be wise to pause, and take stock. "The question is not that I am speaking to a person 3,000 miles away; the question is 'What am I saying?' People were scientific thousands of years ago, but it is the extension of the scientific method that constitutes an advance. The main problem is not to save time by science, but what to do with the time you have saved," the speaker concluded.

There is no doubt that many of them would obtain worse positions than they would with the aid of this bureau. This service, it is expected, will enhance the value of the Society in the eyes of its members and those who are present do not belong.
The efforts of the bureau have not been in vain. Since its founding two years ago, it has successfully placed one hundred and thirty-nine men and women in addition to many others who have been aided by advice and encouragement, the result of which has been that many of them have obtained good positions suited to their talents.

BEATTY FORESEES BUSINESS UPTURN

C.P.R. President Points to Many Helpful Factors
But Says Further Adjustment Necessary to Complete Re-establishment.

"THE after-war period of adjustment through which this country is going is still short of completion," says E. W. Beatty, K.C., in his annual review "but I would add the positive assertion that, unhappy as the past year may have been and as lacking in re-assuring factors as the immediate future may appear, 1932 has seen definite and constructive progress towards improvement.

We see on every side the effect of long drawn-out world trade depression—a process of economic deflation—grinding slowly forward and leaving behind it a wake of human unhappiness and even ruin in directions where it seemed least likely to be possible. Having no clear vision of a definite end to our troubles, we are tempted to despair or to look for remedies to those who preach short cuts to economic security that are as unsound and as surely disastrous as were the extravagant and wasteful methods of conducting national, corporate and individual business which brought about present conditions and we are likely to overlook evidences of progress which justify the belief that this transitional period is taking its well ordered way towards better times.

A year ago I suggested that the movement towards economic adjustment would go further, perhaps even into public and governmental institutions. I am convinced that failure to boldly meet and satisfactorily deal with this matter may easily mean national insolvency and will certainly retard any possible return to a reasonably full measure of prosperity. Nothing that the troubles of the past year have brought into public recognition is so outstanding as is the need for curtailing public expenditure and co-ordinating and re-organizing public activities so that they may be placed upon a basis such as this country of ten million people can well afford. Courageous effort has accomplished real progress along this line but what remains to be done before our national affairs are on a sound economic basis. The nation's annual interest bill is mounting steadily and has done so for many years, a statement that is equally true of Dominion, provincial and municipal affairs. It is the corporate and individual taxpayer who has to pay these, and since the Canadian Pacific Railway pays yearly the country's largest tax bill I may be allowed to lay particular stress upon this point which I consider calls for earnest study at the present time.

The railway situation retains place as Canada's most imperative domestic problem. A year ago we hoped that its early solution was foreshadowed by the appointment of a competent tribunal to probe into its causes and complexities and to present an efficacious solution. We did not then foresee that the proposed solution would be based upon what the Commission thought the people of Canada would be willing to accept rather than upon the stern necessities of the case. Nor was it then apparent that conditions that had brought about the immediate need for effective relief for a situation that threatened national bankruptcy would become still more aggravated as business offering for the railroads continued to show drastic and unprecedented declines. That is what has happened. The decrease

Mr. E. W. Beatty
Chairman and President
Canadian Pacific Ry.

In freight car loadings which began in 1930 has continued almost uninterruptedly. In 1931 up to the end of the first week of December, 558,359 less freight cars had been loaded on all Canadian Railways than for the same period of the previous year. During the same period this year 376,016 less cars were loaded than in 1931. The decline in passenger business has been relatively the same. The resultant effect upon railway earnings has been naturally disastrous. For the first ten months of 1931 Canadian Pacific gross revenue declined 22.1 per cent as compared with that of 1930. For the first ten months of this year now closing there was a further decline of 15.4 per cent. The decline continues, and there certainly appears to be no evidence in sight that for many years we shall see them entirely eliminated and our earnings back where they were in 1928. It is true that the railways have effected drastic economies. As compared with 1931 Canadian Pacific operating costs for the first ten months of 1932 were 15.3 per cent lower, and we expect that we shall make a still better showing in this regard throughout the coming year.

Having the best hope in the world, I hesitate to prophesy any great increase in gross earnings, but it is my deeply considered conviction that if the railways over the next ten or fifteen years are to live anywhere within their income, economies will have to go very much further indeed than has yet been considered by a great number of our people who, it is only fair to state, have not had even a fair opportunity of informing themselves upon the situation. For years we have been impelled towards large capital expenditures, while at the same time competitive transportation agencies, railways, highways and canals have been built up and maintained out of public funds. Keeping these facts in view and having in mind the probable course of economic events over the next few years, the urgency of the need for fundamental change in our railway policy should be clearly apparent. I think that in the wider field of world economics we have witnessed important developments leading towards trade stabilization and encouragement. The improvements in the situation with regard to international war debts and the hope contained in the coming World Trade Conference can certainly be regarded on the brighter side of the ledger, while the first results from the Imperial Trade Conference at Ottawa in the way of improved intra-Empire trade, provide honest ground for quiet congratulation.

I am still as great an optimist as ever on the subject of Canada's ultimate future. The inherent soundness of our country strengthens me in this opinion. I do not think that our business recovery will come with a rush, since the temptation to forget the economic lessons we have learned would be too strong. For one thing, I do not hesitate to say that if within three years we found ourselves again in such a period of economic inflation as we experienced about 1928, and if we had not then definitely settled the railway problem on sound and permanent economic lines we would again be swept off our feet by the flood of competition and competitive extravagances. This, I think applies with equal force to all forms of business.

Referring a year ago to the Royal Commission on railways, I urged that the people of Canada should meet its suggested solutions for our problem with earnest consideration of their economic values unbiased by political color or preconceived prejudices. The question is now more than ever a matter of urgent public discussion and will continue so for many months. It cannot satisfactorily be dealt with in a way to save the country from disaster unless it be considered as an economic question and settled in accordance with the economic truth that transportation agencies are no different from any other form of industry or institution in that they must be both allowed and required to pay their way. Any other attempted solution of the difficulty would be ineffectual, and it is the inescapable obligation of the people of Canada to apply this test to whatever proposals for settlement of the problem may come forward.

established himself among the portals of the famous, by sending in the winning goal for the Plumbers with but three seconds to go, much to the disappointment of the Sawbones.

Chalmers played much the best game for the Med. team, although Tam Fyshe on the forward line was equally effective at times while Law, Ogilvie and Christie, the goal-getters of the Plumbers squad, proved best for their side.

Yesterday's interclass and inter-faculty hockey games were necessarily cancelled due to weather conditions, but with the prospect of colder weather, it is hoped that no further postponement will take place. This afternoon, Engineering I stacked up against last year's champions, Engineering II, and as the latter have been showing all and more of last season's form, they are favored to repeat with a win. The second tilt is another interclass one, with the teams of Law and Theology fighting it out on the McGill rink.
